Rotten Romans Day!

Dear Parents and Carers,

As you are aware, the children have been learning about Roman Britain through a topic called The Rotten Romans. We have been using various texts and Medias to inspire the children, writing persuasive letters, newspaper articles, organising debates, researching the topic independently and even writing poems about it. The children have all worked incredibly hard, and because of this we love to end the term with a big and practical day, all based around topic!

In our final week, we will celebrate the children's achievements in this topic by holding a Rotten Romans Day on Monday 13th December. On this day, the children are welcome, and encouraged, to come to school in clothing inspired by the Romans. They will take part in activities that will allow them to showcase their learning throughout the topic and the day will end with a screening of Horrible Histories: Rotten Romans.

If you have any questions or queries, please do not hesitate to ask us on the gates, we are more than happy to answer any questions.

We're really looking forward to the day!

Yours sincerely,

Year 4 Class Teachers
Miss Walker and Miss Neate.
